References Category:Steinberg Media Technologies productsThis week we look at six of the freshest and most exciting new brands taking the world by storm. With established brands like Apple, Nike, Adidas and other premium brands, there is a shortage of brands that are unique and have something to say. In the age of Instagram, becoming a social media influencer has become the norm. Branding has become a representation of the millennial's who want to be seen as an authority. It's not about the number of followers, but how those followers are engaging. These are the brands who have something to say and are different enough to stand out. We explore these six brands and give you the scoop on the latest trends, design trends, products and what's in store for them. Founder, Jamie Cerretti Known for his bold use of color and playful graphics, Jamie Cerretti is a co-founder of Collectif. As the Chief Creative Officer for Collectif, Jamie oversees all aspects of brand and creative strategy. In the current economic climate, Cerretti believes that brands with personality, innovation and a narrative will have an advantage. Cerretti says, "We are still just getting started. We're a modern day brand consultancy, focused on becoming the world's most impactful digital marketing company. This means, better content, smarter technology and better business results. We're all about partnering with clients to deliver a strategy that defines and builds brands, which makes all the difference." Founded in the fall of 2015, Collectif designs, builds and manages marketing strategies for clients. They help entrepreneurs to transform their businesses and thrive online. Their services include strategy, design, development, content, marketing and social media. The Growing Trend of Mixing Leather and Textile Leather was once a staple of being a premium brand. However, as we are now living in a world of fast fashion and fast-paced lives, the leather industry is on a slippery slope. But what if we could still wear leather without feeling guilty? This week, we are exploring the newly-launched leather-mixing trend. Brands such as Ellesse, Theory and Céline have brought a leather-inspired aesthetic into the fashion world. Leather is no longer just reserved for expensive luxury brands, but it can be part of your everyday wardrobe. 2d92ce491b
