Rohinton Mistry -. Tell my love about the dead peacocks and falcons in the Firozsha Baag garden so they are not laid to rest with the peacocks and falcons of the Rana garden.

Rohinton Mistry's Firozsha Baag stories go back to his first, short stories " The Lady of Panju " and " Touche pas toi.. Tales from Firozsha Baag. - Rohinton Mistry.. There is no star in the Firozsha Baag when it is storming but the light in the skies is the.As the World Cup enters its knockout stages, all eyes are on England, who have made it to the quarter-finals in Brazil. There are big challenges ahead, but the team has what it takes to get there. The Three Lions are tipped to beat Italy at Wembley on Tuesday, but the big game will be against Argentina, who boast the world's best player in Lionel Messi. England has put in some good performances in Brazil, and there's no doubt the country has some amazing players – but do they have enough depth? Let's take a look at England's best XI, based on performances so far. Striker – Harry Kane Harry Kane has been outstanding for England. The Tottenham man has scored five goals in the tournament, as well as being named man-of-the-match on three occasions. Kane has only started five games in the Premier League this season, but his presence on the pitch makes the other players around him more likely to perform. He's not spectacular, but he makes the difference and always gets the ball rolling in the team. Midfielder – Dele Alli Dele Alli is a box-to-box midfielder who gets into the final third of the pitch, with a desire to link play. He has scored once, but has also created two assists and won two man-of-the-match awards. He's got a great chance of making a difference against Italy and Argentina. Forward – Raheem Sterling England’s top scorer, Raheem Sterling, has been quite impressive. He’
