Best regards, Etkem || Support@kidspiration.com Kidspiration is indented for children in K-5 grades, providing a fun and interactive learning environment where they can enrich the vocabulary, understand new thinking algorithms and develop reading and math skills. Kidspiration relies on visual learning methods, aiming to help pupils develop basic skills in various domains. It can engage children in several interesting activities designed to make the learning process entertaining, providing exercises related to reading and writing, math, science and social studies. The drawing application enables users to create logic diagrams and maps that helps them organize, connect and synthesize ideas or express their thoughts much easier. The extended and variate object library allows them to include all kinds of graphics within a project, from geometrical figures to science-related objects. Customized symbols and figures can also be created using simple paint tools. The application can also be used for improving the reading and writing skills, thanks to the possibility to link images with written expressions. This assists children in expressing their thought and communicating ideas to others fluently. The 'Word Guide' only adds to its value by providing assistance for reading word explanations and searching for synonyms or antonyms. The math activities are designed to help children learn about basic operations, such as addition, multiplication, subtraction, division or creating graphs. In the 'Social Studies' section, they improve skills related to a variety of domains, such as object comparison, animal behavior and classification, meal habits, history and chronology, biography, politics and more. As expected, the interface design matches the application 6a5afdab4c
