Navigation menu Desperation increased. His dad kissed his mouth awake and grabbed the sheet with one hand. "Mom, dad, can you come to my room? I am going to the school library with Rachel. They hit the wall, dad, in that hallway. "When you get a chance?" Ryan slipped one of her hands behind her back, pulling her to him. "Do you want me to carry you, or are you ready? " "Carry me," she said, and he took her over his shoulder. "You sure?" Ryan's family had lived in port marble for over a year, and he had little desire to move. Rachel was in trouble. He didn't know what it was, but Ryan found himself looking at his phone, wondering how much time was left. It was a feeling that he had come to know all too well. The door opened, and he carried Rachel inside. "Where have you been?" Doug asked, looking at her lanky body. He placed her on the bed, and she looked up at Ryan. "Dad, I'm fine. "My arm," she said, and a slight cry escaped her throat. She leaned over, pointing to her right side. "Help! Ryan bolted from the bed and rushed to her, gently touching her elbow. His stomach dropped as he realized there was blood under the patch. He carefully went through her history of medications, and guessed correctly, telling her that she had dislocated a rib. He told her to lie back, and get a few aspirin. "Is that your phone?" Doug said, sitting down on the edge of the bed. "Can I use it? I'm sure there's a reason he isn't calling, but at least I'll know. I'll keep it here." "Of course," Ryan said, handing it to him, and quickly logged on to the web. He found what he was looking for, and couldn't resist. "What are you doing?" Rachel said, as he returned to the bed. "I'm going to check in with my agent." Ryan's mother and father were still in the living room, watching television. "How is she?" She sounded as if she were on the verge of tears. "She's okay," Ryan said, turning the page. "You have no idea how it feels to be me right now. I'm a high school

I'm doing just that with this publication because I can't wait to start working on future content. I can't wait to get back to writing how I'd like to write. What is it you say after you fall in love? Well, you fall in LOVE with me and I 'U' with you? I'm ready to 'U' with you now my dear friends. Join me in the next chapter of 'I Can't Wait For You'. EPISODE 12 : MY BRAIN Everyone deserves a little 'I Can't Wait For You' from time to time. Well, everyone who wants to listen. I've always been passionate about people's problems but less passionate about taking my own advice. In this episode, I've decided to make a mental disclaimer and move on. I don't have time for my own problems right now. So, I'm going to tell you about someone else's. I'll be honest. This is going to be the longest part of the series for me and it's going to be a total departure from the rest of the series. I'm going to tell you about a friend, a business partner, and a future best friend. I've loved them all for a while now, but because of finances and other things, I haven't been as open and honest with them as I have been with you. In this episode, I'll be discussing my journey with depression and what it's been like to be able to cope and even see myself out of it. That's all I'm going to tell you about today. Hopefully, I've written well and I've been able to share something about myself with you. 3e33713323
