What's New in the?

An ideal live wallpaper that brings an old school feel to your desktop! Originally designed for the legendary Commodore 64 personal computer, Alomware 64 has been a huge hit and is now available for more operating systems than just the C64. Our little friend is not only able to display your computer's system statistics like CPU and RAM speed, hard drive space, battery level, PC name, login username, user's digital rights, etc. but also the time of day, date, and random objects to be displayed as well as the famous (C64) game of pokes and/or mazes. All this is done in an old school nostalgic way and is possible by modifying just a few configuration options. With Alomware 64, the old is always new! Besides the wallpaper and taskbar, Alomware 64 also includes a sleek and stylish weather widget that is always updated as the day evolves. Color options, configuration and customization settings You can fully customize the live wallpaper to your liking. The configuration settings can be accessed by clicking the bottom right corner icon that brings you to a full-screen menu. Alomware 64 comes with various display settings like Refresh Rate (in "Mili"), Pause Rate, Widescreen Resolution, Zooming Resolution, Partial Screen, Fading Rate, and Vertical Position (X or Y). All these options can be easily selected and tweaked to your liking. One of the unique features of Alomware 64 is the ability to display the current system date and time on the wallpaper, and while this can be accomplished in the Hardware settings, the rest is done in the software. There are plenty of customization options to fully customize the app to your liking. All the settings are accessible by a right click on the taskbar icon. You can control the position of the wallpaper by adjusting the Vertical or Horizontal setting and you can set the Transitioning Time by adjusting the number of seconds you want the wallpaper to move on the screen (from 0 to 100 seconds). You can also select the number of Objects to be displayed on the wallpaper. Of course, you can use Alomware 64's built-in Shape Editor to create your own special textures for the wallpaper. Wanna play some games? Alomware 64 also includes a new game, CHR$(205.5)+RND(1) that is not only fun to play, but also allows you to gain points by modifying each dot on the screen to a different color. This game is a nice extra feature for Alomware 64, and is possible in just a few clicks. And you can play the game on the full screen if you set the Vertical Position to 90 (y).
