After a decade of development, the 2in, 3.5oz soundbox is now complete and ready to be premiered at the St Bride's Composers Club on London's Fleet Street next month. Created by David Sher for the charity The Children's Society and adapted by Sarah Mullican, its diminutive size will allow a small number of young people to play it. David Sher, a multi-talented artist, musician and partner of the Shery Minster Choir, has spent years planning the piece for charity. "I wanted to have it ready by then and it's an unbelievable feeling to be able to do that and represent the kids I work with," he said. "It's about their journey and the journey of an orchestra. It's a narrative. It's a story and it needs children's patience to play it. I've done it for them so they can hear my heartbeat." (Image: Richard Pohle) After a decade in development, David's music has become a trademark. His small soundscapes are accordion-like in style and 9df0af710a
