This guide will help you get started in the world of photo editing, whether you're a beginner, hobbyist or professional. We'll go through the essentials of creating and manipulating photos in Photoshop Elements. Let's get started! Step 1 Open an image in Photoshop Elements and create a New File. Step 2 To create the basic elements of your image, create a New Layer above the Background Layer. Use the Rectangular Selection tool (L) and drag to select a portion of the image. Then press Delete (D) on your keyboard to remove the selected area. This will create a new layer with the selected area. Step 3 In this step, we'll select the Background Layer and press Ctrl + C (Command + C on a Mac). Step 4 In the New Layer dialog, you'll see the options for creating a New Fill or a New Adjustment Layer. Press the little padlock icon to select either option. For this tutorial, we'll create a New Adjustment Layer. Step 5 In the Adjustment window, press the slash (/) symbol. Step 6 Click in the Foreground Color box to select a color. The other boxes will be covered in more detail in the main tutorial, but for now just type in the color you want for your new layer. Step 7 Click OK to save the new layer. Now the layer you just created can be used for color or texture. Step 8 You can use any of the adjustment tools in the tools palette at the bottom of the workspace for this step. We'll open the Pen tool and create a few dots to help the next steps. Step 9 Double-click the newly created layer to edit it. You'll see two boxes — Foreground and Background — in the layer's properties palette. Click in the Foreground box, then hold down the Shift key on your keyboard and press the up arrow key. You'll see that the color of the Pen changes to match your foreground color. Click in the Background box and you'll see that the color of the Pen changes to match your background color. Step 10 Let's change the size of our dots. Click in the Pen and type 5 in the Size box. Press Enter on your keyboard. You a681f4349e

Q: How to replace a field in a variable in HTML file I have some HTML content stored in a variable in Python. I want to replace one field in that variable. Let's suppose I have variable content = 'Hello [N] [Bold] World'. Now I want to replace Bold with and [N] with just '. I know I need to change [] but how do I do it? (Note: I can also use print or write to disk but the hard part is not in these) A: Using string substitutions I would use: content = re.sub(r'\[Bold\]',r', content) I.e.: In [3]: import re In [4]: content = 'Hello [N] [Bold] World' In [5]: re.sub(r'\[Bold\]',r', content) Out[5]: 'Hello [N] World' It is undisputed that the minimum wage is a fundamentally dangerous idea and that its minimum threshold is a theoretical barrier to employment. On this basis, it is reasonable to conclude that the minimum wage should be abandoned as a legal construct and its minimum threshold should be eliminated. Of course, the minimum wage is not the only economically damaging legal construct of the last century. Following World War Two, the United States entered a period of prosperity with a significant surge in prosperity in which the American people could move from a generation of poverty to a generation of prosperity. As a result of this unprecedented prosperity, a new employment-based social contract was established. Though the wage growth was generally modest during this period, the quality of the new jobs greatly improved. The new jobs provided greater flexibility, more security, better benefits and job opportunities for women and for African Americans and other minorities. The socio-political winds of the time strongly supported the new employment arrangement. Major businesses advocated that the benefits of the new jobs be shared with workers by passing on the cost increases to consumers. Government also supported the new employment arrangement. Since the workers were a large portion of consumers, even without higher wages, new employment opportunities would have resulted in higher aggregate demand. Tax legislation also provided incentives to create new jobs, helping to make the new jobs work. As a result, new jobs became the
