THE STATE. 42926. Supreme Court of Georgia. Decided June 5, 1985. Rehearing Denied June 25, 1985. Jeffrey W. Stuckey, for appellant. Spencer Lawton, Jr., District Attorney, Michael J. Bowers, Assistant District Attorney, for appellee. CLARKE, Justice. Willie Byrd was convicted of the felony murder of R. N. Masson and sentenced to life imprisonment. He brings this appeal alleging improper remarks made by the prosecutor and his illegal detention in violation of his constitutional rights. The evidence supports a finding that Byrd and his two companions drove to the home of Masson and his wife. Byrd told Masson's wife that he "knew her husband was staying with the wrong crowd." The appellant indicated Masson owed him money. Masson was threatened with a gun, was beaten, and was stabbed. Masson's wife testified Byrd told her to go into her home, which she did. She remained inside her home until she heard gunshots. She returned to her husband's home and found her husband dead. 1. Byrd's argument that the prosecutor improperly commented on his failure to testify is without merit. We have carefully reviewed the record and find no improper reference to Byrd's 570a42141b
