Q: How to use non-spaceparated Variables in link_to in Rails How do I link a collection of variables when using a link_to helper in rails to create a link that is not in the form of just one html tag. This will create the following html: -123 This makes sense because the domain is href="" But I want to use the variable to have a one that says how many I want to have (in this case '123'). If I do this, I get this: -123, -456, -789 I want something like this: -123-456-789 Thanks A: If you really want to keep the link in a variable, then you have to put the comma delimiter, but use a string with the concatenation method: You can also use the %i route helper in your link, which lets you use a string instead of a number: This will produce: -123-456-789 require 'puppet/util/filesystem/fileparsing' require 'puppet/util/filesystem/file_load' require 'puppet/util/filesystem/x_file_load' require 'puppet/util/filesystem/file_relative' require 'puppet/util/filesystem/relative_path' require 'puppet/util/filesystem/system_file' require 'puppet/util/filesystem/filepath_convert' require
