Q: How to install missing dll files (Package restore issue) in VS 2015 in VS 2013 When I opened my project solution (Visual Studio 2013)..Net 4.5.2 is missing from projects under App_Data folder (ASP.NET Web Application). Also, there is no ASP.NET Web Application template available for 2013 or 2015 version. (I am open to other templates as well). I know that, we can add "ASP.NET Web Application" in solution file (or project file). But, I dont know what package restore is doing and how to solve it. When I added template it was automatically started as an empty application. How to solve package restore issue with missing dll files? A: Regarding the first part of your question about how the missing items got into your ASP.NET project: Visual Studio uses Package Restore to restore packages (that is, load dlls). Simply running the app will not cause the dlls to be restored. In order to do that, you must select a build event from the Build menu. It's important that you select a build event that will trigger Package Restore to be run. For example, adding an App.Config change in a build event will trigger the build to rebuild (and the dlls to be restored). #33000000
